Honouring Your Pet Through Wall Art

We all take hundreds of photographs, but how many of our favourites actually make it off our phones and onto the walls?

Your pet's portraits deserve better than being lost in a camera roll. Having them professionally printed makes all the difference, but finding somewhere that produces beautiful, consistent results isn't always easy.

The paper, inks and printing process all play an important role in how your photographs look and how long they last. Many everyday printing services use standard photographic papers & cheap inks rather than archival materials, which can be more susceptible to fading over time, especially when exposed to light and moisture.

We've taken the time to find specialist print labs that share our commitment to quality. From beautiful cotton rag papers to carefully selected archival materials, we want every print to do justice to the original photograph and remain a treasured part of your home for years to come.

Most clients invest between $1,000 and $5,000.

Orders over $500 include high res digital files alongside your chosen prints or artwork.
